The river Left Avacha – is one of the main tributaries of the river Avacha, passing by the city of Petropavlovsk-Kamchatsky and Elizovo. The river Left Avacha begins from the pits of the Valaginsky ridge. The water, as in many rivers of Kamchatka, is very pure, clear and tasty. As the river flows in the wild area, where there are no people and no plants and anything like that on its shores, the water is drinkable without any processing.

The speed of the flow reaches 2.5 min/sec, the depth is from 0.5 meters to 4 meters. The temperature of the water is up to 18°C. There are no difficult rapids on the river Left Avacha which can be dangerous for tourists. However there are some easy boundaries that will bring a joy from the rafting.
