Sea voyage to the Starichkov island, 6 hrs

The island Starichkov is a natural sanctuary of the regional importance. It is located in the Avacha gulf of the Pacific Ocean in 12 km to the south from the entrance to the Avacha bay. The island area is just 93 hectares and it is surrounded by numerous coastal reefs and stones, which you can see during the ebb tide. More than 50 thousand of sea colonial birds of 11 different species breed on the island. The main species are tufted puffin and murrelet. On the coastal cliffs there are rookeries which consist of mixed colonies of willocks, capelins and cormorants. On the seastack Karaulnoye two Steller's sea eagles – rare birds of the Red List of Russia – bring out nestlings annually. On the coastal reefs around the island you can see the beds of various kinds of seals. You may see on the route killer whale and dolphins.
